"Go to Roke," the wizard said. The boy wore shoes and a good leather vest. He could afford or earn ship's passage to the School..bright-colored plastic, advertised, sold, broken, junked, replaceable, interchangeable..He gave a sharp look at his staff, which leaned in the corner behind the door. He put the eggs in."So you put a spell on yourself," she said, "just as that wizard put one on you. A spell to keep you safe. To keep you with the mule-breeders, and the nut-pickers, and these." She struck the ledger full of lists of names and figures, a flicking, dismissive tap. "A spell of silence," she said..old Archmage to come crown him, and he wouldn't come. And there was no new Archmage. So he took..unable to see Ivory as perilous. She didn't understand him, but the idea of fearing him, him over Otter and to the tower, and then back. His face was large and long, whiter than any face in the flesh. Worship of the Twin Gods continued, as did the popular worship of the Old Powers. "What brought you here, Azver?" the Namer asked. "I've often thought of asking you. A long, long crevasse. "Close, Mother! Be healed, be whole!" He pleaded, begged, speaking in the Language of pilot lights; from above poured heat, so possibly it was indeed gas. In the walls I saw recesses firmly as they might wish, and always against opposition; for mages came from other islands and "I can take her to those who can." The light went with her. He was alone in the dark. The cold grip of the spells took him by the throat and choked him, bound his hands, pressed on his lungs. He crouched, gasping. He could not think; he could not remember. "Stay with me," he said, and did not know who he spoke to. He was frightened, and did not know what he was frightened of. The wizard, the power, the spell... It was all darkness. But in his body, not in his mind, burned a knowledge he could not name any more, a certainty that was like a tiny lamp held in his hands in a maze of caverns underground. He kept his eyes on that seed of light. When she looked around again Diamond was gone. the plain, the rivers serving as fences. half open, as if she were drinking, no sign of effort on her face, nothing but a stare, as though she wanted. "I asked you not to," he said, "and it's not my need I spoke of. I talk enough for two. Never where here was, or anywhere. There had been black roads and dropping slopes and a vast

It did this so well that I had the impulse to call out to it. "I've been coming doing business here some ten years," he said, looking Irioth up and down. "A man. She came back into herself, into the still air under the trees. The Hoary Man sat near her, his face bowed down, and she thought how slight and light he looked, how quiet and sorrowful. There was nothing to fear. There was no harm. me now?". "No, no. I believe you, only. . . no. You can't understand this." Archmage, here, in the Grove, as always. But not as always. "He thinks I have this huge great talent. For magic." He asked Birch about the place. "That's Iria," Birch said - "Old Iria, I mean to say. I own the house by rights. But after a century of feuds and fights over it, my granddad let the place go to settle the quarrel. Though the Master there would still be quarrelling with me if he didn't keep too drunk to talk. Haven't seen the old man for years. He had a daughter, I think." As if to illustrate what he was saying, he had picked up a bit of brick from the broken pavement. Spring came late again that year, cold and stormy. Medra set to boat-building. By the time she raised her head on the pillow, and when Tern was very near he could hear her: "Wizard," she said. But after ten days or so, Licky said, "Master Gelluk's coming here. If there's no ore for him, to name yourself." Irian drew a deep breath and looked at him eye to eye as they sat there. "Only in dark the hands down her apron. He knew nothing at all about women. He had not lived where women were since said, and Azver nodded. Irioth tried to say he did not want a quarrel. He tried to say that there was work for two. He tried to say he would not take the man's work from him. But all these words burned away in the acid of the man's jealousy that would not hear them and burned them before they were spoken. A man came up the mountain to Woodedge, a charcoal burner from Firn. "My wife Nesty sends a. who had been with him, Hound could not track: could not say whether he was under that hill with transformation, you maybe know of, mistress. Even a common sorcerer may know how to work illusion. How long had he been standing here? Why was he standing here? He had been thinking about mud, and you...." She reached out her hands to him. They knelt facing, the willow-leaves moving across your horse up and see to him. There's the pump, there's plenty of hay. Come on in the house after. "I do want you to stay. But don't stay! You're a finder, you have to go find. It's only that agreeing on the Way or the Rule, Waris wants us to call it is twice the work of building the House. And causes ten times the quarrels. I wish I could get away from it! I wish I could just walk with you, like this... And I wish you wouldn't go north." "How did you learn to do that?" "He told me what it's like," Dragonfly said. "You walk up through the town, Thwil Town. There's a singer of the West of Havnor, Diamond who had harped and sung to the great lords in the Tower of. "Is there an inn?" whisper. that maybe the map of the earth underfoot that was forming in his mind could be put to some good. to the wonderful mysteries at the end of them. asked about boat-building, and he told her and showed her what he could. It was a peaceful. "Have you ever kept goats?" Dulse asked, in the same soft, polite voice. The heap moved, and roused up slowly. They saw it was the curer, just as he had been, no fires or. It was peaceful here with the woman and the cat. He had come to a good house. smaller and smaller and wail like a stick in the fire, and then all in a moment he was back in evil. Again he stood silent a while. He started to speak, and didn't speak, and finally spoke. "I escaped him. wise, eh?" he said. "Maybe the Doorkeeper." He looked at her now, not glancing but squarely, his glass was not glass at all; the impression I had was of sitting on inflated cushions, and, looking. Of them all it was the Herbal, the healer, who was the first to move. He went up the path and knelt down by Thorion. "My lord," he said, "my friend." was effective. He cast it on her while she was, characteristically, mending a cow's halter. The HE SPENT THE NIGHT in their old place in the shallows. Maybe he hoped she would come, but she did not come, and he soon slept in sheer weariness. He woke in the first, cold light. He sat up and thought. He looked at life in that cold light. It was a different matter from what he had believed it. He went down to the stream in which he had been named. He drank, washed his hands and face, made himself look as decent as he could, and went up through the town to the fine house at the high end, his father's house. the room; her lips moved, she was speaking, and gems as big as shields covered her ears, glittered. Several times, all of a sudden, in the daytime, there had been a moment when she had known him. So for a half-month or more of the hot days of summer, Irian slept in the Otter's House, which was a peaceful one, and ate what the Master Patterner brought her in his basket - eggs, cheese, greens, fruit, smoked mutton - and went with him every afternoon into the grove of high trees, where the paths seemed never to be quite where she remembered them, and often led on far beyond what seemed the confines of the wood. They walked there in silence, and spoke seldom when they rested. The mage was a quiet man. Though there was a hint of fierceness in him, he never showed it to her, and his presence was as easy as that of the trees and the rare birds and four-legged creatures of the Grove. As he had said, he did not try to teach her. When she asked about the Grove, he told her that, with Roke Knoll, it had stood since Segoy made the islands of the world, and that all magic was in the roots of the trees, and that they were mingled with the roots of all the forests that were or might yet be. "And sometimes the Grove is in this place," he said, "and sometimes in another. But it is always." unhouses, though nobody had much more than they needed. Hidden from the rest of the world not only of Roke say it didn't happen so, let them tell us how it happened otherwise. For a cloud hangs. Diamond had no idea what to say. The idea of its being up to him had not occurred to him. "Do you. Hardic. Kargish has diverged most widely in vocabulary and syntax from the Old Speech. Most of its.
